Research areas

I have focused on various areas of economic research, from political economy to public economics and local finance, from cultural economics to tourism economics. I am mainly focused on empirical analyses.

More specifically, some of my recent publications deal with

- Economics of the arts and culture
- Political institutions and fiscal policy
- Local government expenditure
- Tourism
- Voter turnout

In the past I also wrote on monetary and fiscal policy in Italy in historical perspective and the effects of fiscal policy on private consumption
